

Friendly Pines, now a Fourth Generation Camp, was founded by Bud and Isabelle Brown, who remained actively involved through the early 1990's. Bebe Brown May now carries on the family traditions that she and her late-husband, Jack May, so carefully nurtured since assuming the ownership of the camp from her father and mother back in mid 1960's. Jack was a Certified Camp Director and brought to Friendly Pines a business background of over 20 years; an education in one of England's finest schools, and four years active duty as a fighter pilot in the Royal Air Force. With Bebe, a former teacher (M.A., Arizona State University), as Senior Director, every phase of the camp operation has her scrupulous personal attention. Capably assisting in management is Director, Kevin Nissen, and Assistant Director, Megan May, great-granddaughter of Uncle Bud and son and Taylor May, daughter, Rosemary and Christopher M.D., also play an important role in facilitating the camp's mission.

CAMPING...

...a magic world compounded of vibrant blue skies, mountaintop views, the rustle of clearwater over a stream bed, companionship in the forest, flickering campfire light against the tall pines, the wonder of wild animals discovered in their natural home - and finally that inner sense of growth and accomplishment that comes with progress made toward new skills and new confidence gained under kindly, understanding counsel - this is an opportunity your child deserves!

GREETINGS

from Friendly Pines Camp and The Bud Brown & Jack May Family

I don't know if my parents ever gave much thought as to whether or not the summer camp they started in the 1940's would still be going strong over 75 years later. I do know, however, the fact that Friendly Pines Camp has flourished for seven decades would make them smile. My parents (Uncle Bud and Brownie) were a wise couple. They knew that the timeless, traditional values upon which Friendly Pines was built were solid enough to weather bad times, changing tastes, and a multitude of diversions. It was, for Uncle Bud and Brownie, a "dream come true," where the finest summer experiences in wholesome, safe and FUN camping could be offered to all boys and girls.

Thanks to Uncle Bud and Brownie's inspired vision, it has been the great joy of our family to welcome countless, worldwide families to this heavenly little spot in the mountains of Arizona. For some camp families that joy now spans up to three generations; Yes, we now welcome the grandchildren of our earliest campers. As for our own family, Friendly Pines now includes four generations. The torch was passed in the mid-60's to my dear late husband Jack and me, and we've been active in FPC's operation every day since. Our children, Rosemary Taylor and Christopher May, M.D., represent the third generation, while Megan May (Assistant Director), Nick May, Collin Taylor, and Brock Taylor represent the fourth generation. As we prepare to celebrate our camp's 78th anniversary, the same philosophy lives on, ever true to the founding principles of Uncle Bud and Brownie, to turn childhood moments into life's rich memories. We warmly invite you to join our summer family at Friendly Pines where, as one camper put it,

"Your heart will call it home."

SINCE 1941...

An Arizona Tradition!

Friendly Pines is nationally known for leadership, location, programming, and progressive standards. In continuous operation since 1941, the camp occupies an ideal location among the tall pines in the Bradshaw Mountain area, just six miles from Prescott. Children thrive in the clear, cool, pollen-free air. At an elevation of 6,300 feet, the nights are crisp with daytime highs usually in the 80's. Our own deep wells provide an abundance of pure, delicious mountain water. Besides the outdoor setting of fields, lakes, streams and forests, Friendly Pines also is favored in having both an outstanding staff and excellent physical plant; charming redwood buildings provide amply for sleeping, dining, and other needs. Having separate villages for girls and boys, with a single seating in the dining hall, maintains the "family feeling" essential to the best camping experience.

OUR STAFF

Counselors, of whom many are former FPC campers, are college age or above. We strive to assemble a staff of congenial, fun-loving but mature and dedicated leaders, as sensitive as they are competent. We draw staff not only from Arizona's fine universities, but also from schools around the country and around the world. Our entire staff is selected with great care through personal interviews, references, thorough professional background checks, and drug testing.

OUR STANDARDS

Safety and security for campers, far more than just a slogan, is the guiding principle by which careful, intelligent and experienced planning takes every possible precaution. Being without serious illness, accident, or incident throughout the camp's history is a record that speaks for itself. Staff are carefully screened; campers receive 24-hour adult supervision; access into camp is highly controlled; the public is never allowed on the property; equipment is up-to-date and well maintained; smoke and carbon monoxide detectors are in use; an M.D. is always on call, and an R.N. is always on duty at the camp infirmary to administer meds and basic first aid, and to evaluate and monitor the general health of the camp. Standards relating to every phase of the camp organization, personnel, program, health, safety, and physical plant equal or exceed those established by the American Camping Association, Arizona State Health Department and Yavapai County, all of which accredit Friendly Pines. We are also long-standing and proud members of the Western Association of Independent Camps.

OUR DRESS POLICY

We want to liberate campers from a myriad of social pressures that rob them of their childhood. To that end, Friendly Pines Camp abides by a common sense dress policy that attempts to de-emphasize the heavy focus on fashion that has little meaning in a real camp setting. Simply put, usual play-clothes (in good taste) - jeans, T-shirts, shorts (finger-tip length), modest one piece swimsuits or tankinis - are what we wear in camp. If you have questions, please contact us. Enrolled campers will receive a complete list of what to bring (and what not to bring) to camp.

OUR PHILOSOPHY & MISSION

No matter which camping program you choose for your child, you'll want to know the organization's guiding philosophy. After more than seven decades of camping, Friendly Pines remains firmly fixed on a philosophy that embraces the following principles:

- Maintain a safe, caring environment in which a child feels happy, secure, and appreciated as an individual.
- Select a staff of outstanding role models, who are worthy of the campers' trust in them.
- Offer a non-competitive program allowing each camper to succeed at his or her own pace.

- Provide campers with the opportunity to make meaningful choices.
- Teach campers the skills required for living in a group setting.
- Foster campers' appreciation for the beauty and value of the natural world.
- Create an environment that encourages independence, self-reliance, and a sense of responsibility.

- Show campers how to develop their own creative, wholesome forms of entertainment.
- Help each camper to identify and cherish his or her own unique strengths, talents, and interests, and to seek the best in others.
- Allow campers to learn by doing.
- Offer a low-stress, FUN experience that lets children enjoy all of the wonders of childhood!
